DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-4, drawn to polypeptides of SEQ ID NO: 2, classified in class 435, subclass 183.
- II. Claims 5-10 and 17, drawn to nucleic acid molecules, classified in class 536, subclass 23.2.
- III. Claims 11 and 13, drawn to detecting binding to a GS-like polypeptide, classified in class 435, subclass 4.
- IV. Claims 12, 14, and 15, drawn to measuring GS-like activity of a polypeptide, classified in class 435, subclass 4.
- V. Claim 16, drawn to an antibody against the polypeptide of SEQ ID NO: 2, classified in class 530, subclass 389.1.

Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). Also, product and process inventions are distinct if any of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product, (2) that the product claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product, or (3) that the product claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(h)). These inventions are different or distinct for the following reasons.

The nucleic acids of Invention II are related to the proteins of Invention I by virtue of encoding the same. The DNA molecule has utility for the recombinant production of the protein in host cells. Although the DNA molecule and protein are related, since the DNA encodes the specifically claimed protein, they are distinct inventions because they are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities, and the protein product can be made by another and materially different process, such as by synthetic peptide synthesis or purification from the natural source. Further, the DNA may be used for processes other than the production of the protein, such as nucleic acid hybridization assay.

The proteins of Invention I are related to the antibodies of Invention V by virtue of being the cognate antigen necessary for the production of antibodies. Although the protein and antibody are related due to the necessary steric complementarity of the two, they are distinct inventions because they are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities and because the protein can be used in another and materially different process from the use for production of the antibody, such as in assays for the identification of agonists or antagonists of the enzyme.

Inventions II and V are unrelated because the products of Inventions II and V are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities.

The methods of Inventions III and IV are related to proteins of Invention I and the antibodies of Invention V as products and process of use. The methods inventions are distinct from the product inventions because said proteins and antibodies can also be used as pharmaceuticals.

The methods of Inventions III and IV are unrelated to the DNA of Invention II because said methods neither use nor make said DNA.

Inventions III and IV are unrelated because the methods of Inventions III and IV comprise different steps, utilize different products and/or produce different results.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter, as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
